

Alain Findeli Collected Works

The poster maps 75 texts by the design theorist Alain Findeli published between 1986 and 2018 in numerous books, journals, reports, in conference proceedings or delivered as lectures. The texts are ordered chronologically according to their year of publication. Each text is represented by a data object mapping the length of the publication, its subject area, the language of publication and the type of publication containing the text. The different subject areas refer to a system of classification developed by Findeli. Years without known publications are indicated as greyed out objects. Translated texts or texts which were published in different versions and in different publications are connected with a dotted line.

This poster was developed alongside an online archive where all texts can be accessed and downloaded: www.bibliothequealainfindeli.ch.

The length of each publication is indicated by the width of the data object. This width is calculated by an algorithm taking into account the number of pages and the page size.

The type of publication containing the texts is represented by a triangle where the lowest point is shifted accordingly.

Alain Findeli published in three languages. Each language is indicated by a vertical line at the beginning of each data object.

Alain Findeli developed a system of classification consisting of seven subject areas. These are indicated by a color coded horizontal bar at the top.
